

Affect vs. Effect Worksheet #3 Answers

1. Effect— The blank is preceded by the word an, making it a noun.
2. Effect— The blank is preceded by the word an, making it a noun.
3. Affected— Affect is a verb form that means to influence and fits within the context of the sentence.
4. Affect— Affect is a verb form that means to influence and fits within the context of the sentence.
5. Affect— Affect is a verb form that means to influence and fits within the context of the sentence.
6. Effect— The blank is preceded by the word an, making it a noun.
7. Affected— Affect is a verb form that means to influence and fits within the context of the sentence.
8. Effect— The blank is preceded by the word the, making it a noun.
9. Affected— Affect is a verb form that means to influence and fits within the context of the sentence.
10. Effect— The blank is preceded by the word a, making it a noun.